

The Markets of Vienna.

The principal Markets in Vienna are for vegetables and fruits those on the Hof and Freiung, the Naschmarkt, that in the Seilerstätte and adjoining streets, and that on a place near the Franz-Joseph's quay which is called "Schanzl". For venison there are many shops at the so-called "Wildpretmarkt"; Fish is sold in the street running parallel to the Franz-Joseph's Quay, etc. — There is besides a central Market-Hall of recent date on the way to the suburb Landstrasse, in the space between the Railway and the Town-Park, at which all kinds of victuals can be procured at a moderate price.

There are other markets for the purchase of hay, coals, and lime, in the proximity of the Matzleinsdorf gate.

Fire-wood is sold on the banks of the Danube in the suburbs Rossau, Weissgärber, Erdberg, and in the Brigittenau. — Wheat and Corn before the "Getreidemarkt" Barracks, Laimgrube, and flour is to be had on the Neu-markt and in the old city.

The Market for left-off clothes and a multitude of other second-hand articles is one of the curiosities of the metropolis. Beginning with the most costly articles of dress and ending with the simple button, every imaginable trumpery article is here of cheap acquisition. This establishment is situated near the Berggasse, Alsergrund.
