

Handwritten text in German, likely a letter or a page from a manuscript. The text is written in a cursive script and is mostly illegible due to fading and bleed-through from the reverse side.

The text begins with "Handwritten text" and continues with several lines of script. Some words are underlined, including "Delia" and "Morgen". The text appears to be a personal communication or a page from a diary or letter.

The text is written in a cursive script and is mostly illegible due to fading and bleed-through from the reverse side.

118.