Handwritten text on the right page, continuing the document. It starts with "Herrn..." and continues down the page. The handwriting is consistent with the left page, though some words are less legible due to fading and the cursive style.
