

The book cover is made of red leather with gold-tooled decorations. A large, ornate monogram 'A' is positioned at the top left, containing a double-headed eagle with spread wings, a crown on its head, and a shield with various symbols. To the right of the monogram, the title 'Ansichten von Wien' is written in a large, flowing, gold-tooled script font. Below the title, there is a small illustration of a city skyline with several prominent buildings and a church tower. The entire cover is framed by a decorative border consisting of a wide outer band with circular floral motifs and a narrower inner band with foliate patterns.
