

Handwritten text in French, likely a musical score or program note, written in cursive. The text is dense and covers most of the page, with some lines appearing to be musical notation or specific performance instructions. The handwriting is elegant and characteristic of the 18th or 19th century.

